

Plans and future

Written by Alexei Spirin

Friday, 24 October 2008 21:57 - Last Updated Saturday, 25 October 2008 10:20

Hi! I found some spare time to make some technical updates to the site. I just wanted to say that I'm in the process of migration to a new position at my job. It will be something between security solution manager and security business development manager. And no more staff on me! So I hope I will have more time to post interesting things on this site.

I have huge plans about digging into Cisco Security Agent. But if someone would be glad to see updates on any other product/technology feel free to post comment to any article.