That's how most of my friends and co-workers reacted to the news that I have joined Cisco Systems as a Technical Solutions Architect. Working in Cisco seemed so logical - I suit Cisco, Cisco suits me - so why not then? And for the past several years I've been approached by Cisco's recruiting and I've approached them, but actually we've never clicked for different reasons. So it happened. Finally! :)

P.S. Still two months of probation period left. Keep fingers crossed. :)

P.P.S. I have a bunch of configs to add to the repository, so stay tuned.
